Scott's former attorney, P. Basil Lambros. Mowery is a free-lance detective.

Superior Judge Maurice C. Sparling issued bench warrants setting $5,000 bail on each defendant. Mowery is in custody. An attorney said Massad, already under bond would surrender today.

Police said they have evidence of a plot to obtain, bury and "discover" a woman's arm to be identified through a wedding ring placed on a finger as that of the missing Mrs. Scott.

Fair Trade Hasn't Worked

The merchandising principle of "fair tive action pulled the rug from under such trade" was struck a couple of body blows when two militant advocates of this minimum price system dropped the price tag on many items. A dozen other corporations followed by removing the price floors from their products.

A number of other "fair trade" advocates have put on a brave face about it, insisting they will continue the practice. But oblivion appears ever closer for the

The reason is simple— it hasn't worked. Such a system of artificially fixed prices was bound to fail in a competitive, dynamic retailing economy.

The idea was that if one retailer agreed to sell merchandise only at an artificial price, he bound all his competitors to this minimum price floor. This was designed to eliminate ruinous, cut-throat competition among retailers in a given area.

But in state after state court and legislaagreements. In at least 17 states now there is no way to enforce "fair trade."

Also, the "fair trade" idea created a situation ripe for price-cutting competition. Thus the "discount houses" stepped in. They made hash of the arrangements, leaving those merchants who stuck by their "fair trade" signatures out on an unprofitable limb.

"Fair trade" may still be a valid principle. But the theory has become moot because in practice it has proved unworkable.

Do the Russians intend to make war upon us if we do not agree to their terms? If so, what is peace? If not, why push anything so hard that what is to be a mechanism to settle issues becomes a cause for conflict?

No such crisis is in sight, although it is not to be believed that Khrushchev could have pushed Molotov, Kaganovich and Zhukov into obscurity without some measure of danger to himself.

Of this, no information is thus far available. There is considerable wishful thinking among some Americans that the counter-revolution in the Communist world is just around the corner and there are even those who would make a distinction between the Russian government "which is our enemy" and the Russian people "who are our friends," but I can see no evidence that the Russian people-a very loose designation have a policy that is distinct from that of the Kremlin.

If Khrushchev wants peace it can be accomplished without a summit conference or a foreign ministers' meeting. It can be accomplished in the Disarmament Committee of the United Nations. Fair Trade Hasn't Worked trade" was struck a couple of body blows when two militant advocates of this minimum price system dropped the price tag on many items. A dozen other corporations followed by removing the price floors from their products.

A number of other "fair trade" advocates have put on a brave face about it. insisting they will continue the practice. But oblivion appears ever closer for the principle.

The reason is simple— it hasn't worked. Such a system of artificially fixed prices was bound to fail in a competitive, dynamic retailing economy.

The idea was that if one retailer agreed to sell merchandise only at an artificial price, he bound all his competitors to this minimum price floor. This was designed to eliminate ruinous, cut-throat competition among retailers in a given area.

But in state after state court and legisla-

The merchandising principle of "fair tive action pulled the rug from under such agreements. In at least 17 states now there is no way to enforce "fair trade."

Also, the "fair trade" idea created a situation ripe for price-cutting competition. Thus the "discount houses" stepped in. They made hash of the arrangements, leaving those merchants who stuck by their "fair trade" signatures out on an unprofitable limb.

"Fair trade" may still be a valid principle. But the theory has become moot because in practice it has proved unworkable.

Nation's Top-Ranked West Virginia Falls Before Manhattan '5'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The far-flung NCAA basketball tournament takes another step tonight toward lining up its 16team field for four class-packed regionals this weekend while the biggest of them all, top-ranked West Virginia, lies flat on its

Even a team rated best in the nation by the experts voting in the final Associated Press poll couldn't help West Virginia overcome the baffling jinx that says WVU just doesn't win in the NCAA tournament.

Four straight years they've tried in their Southern Conference reign under Coach Freddie Schaus, and four times they've been bounced to the sidelines in their first game. Tuesday night, it was the most baffling of all as the Mountaineers, thrown far off balance in the first half, fell before an inspired Manhattan College 89-84 in the feature of a tournament tripleheader at Madison Square Garden.

Glitt Says Four Unlucky

Charlie Glitt, a member of the local Monday Night Bowling league, is convinced that four is his unlucky number.

In a match this week at the local bowling alley, Glitt posted three strikes in a row but on his fourth attempt the ball rolled swiftly down the alley-in the gutter.

The unlucky fourth throw came in the all-important 10th frame. Glitt's excuse was that the ball hit his leg.

Fellow keglers say, with sincerity, that Glitt is one of the most improved bowlers in the league

Nation's Top-Ranked West Virginia Falls Before Manhattan '5'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The far-flung NCAA basketball tournament takes another step tonight toward lining up its 16team field for four class-packed regionals this weekend while the biggest of them all, top-ranked West Virginia, lies flat on its face.

Even a team rated best in the nation by the experts voting in the final Associated Press poll couldn't help West Virginia overcome the baffling jinx that says just doesn't win in the NCAA tournament.

Four straight years they've tried in their Southern Conference reign under Coach Freddie Schaus, and four times they've been bounced to the sidelines in their first game. Tuesday night, it was the most baffling of all as the Mountaineers, thrown far off balance in the first half, fell before an inspired Manhattan College 89-84 in the feature of a tournament tripleheader at Madison Square Garden.

'Manhattan hustled like hell, drove like hell and rebounded like story."

"Weren't the kids great?" asked Manhattan Coach Kenny Norton, who was nearly mauled by his team and delirious spectators after the upset.

In a match this week at the local bowling alley, Glitt posted three strikes in a row but on his fourth attempt the ball rolled swiftly down the alley-in the gutter.

The unlucky fourth throw came in the all-important 10th frame. Glitt's excuse was that the ball hit his leg.

Fellow keglers say, with sincerity, that Glitt is one of the most improved bowlers in the league this year.

Spider Webb Set To Joust Mims

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (P-Spider Webb, one of the hottest middleweight contenders since he knocked out Rory Calhoun in January, will risk a possible shot at the title tonight in a 10-round bout with crafty Holly Mims.

Carl Nelson, Webb's trainer and formerly Joe Louis', frankly called it a bad match for Webb, who won't add much to prestige by defeating the 29-year-old Mims but has everything to lose.

Small Users Bring Cheer To Steel Mills

NEW YORK (P)-Steel mills are cheered by an influx of orders from small customers but depressed by the lethargy of most big users, Iron Age said today.

The national metalworking weekly said that without some help from automobile producers, the railroads and appliance manufacturers, most steel men are resigned to a so-so market situation until midyear.

Iron Age saw an optimistic note in the fact that the current steel production rate is closely keyed to actual business volume. Backlogs for most mills are a thing of the past. User inventories are low.

"An improvement in the business of steel customers could be reflected quickly in the steel ingot rate," it added.

Glaucoma
 Sour Pickles

Q. Is glaucoma a form of eye

A. No. Glaucoma (glo-ko'ma), or "hardening" of the eyeball, is due to increased pressure within the eye. The eye is fill-ed with fluid. Normally, just enough fluid seeps in and flows out to keep inner-eye pressure at just the right level. In glaucoma the outward flow of fluid is partially blocked. Doctors use certain drugs to slow down the inflow and improve the outflow. In some cases they may operate on the eye to bypass the block-ed outlet. Glaucoma causes more blindness than any other eye condition. It occurs most often in people past middle age. If there is any suspicion of glaucoma the eye doctor will use special tests. Because glaucoma can cause blindness, it's always best for people who "just need glasses" to be checked by an oculist (ophthalmologist). Ocuists are medical doctors who have had special training in eye disorders so that they may treat such eye diseases as glaucoma as well as prescribe glasses. Q. Do many expectant mothers develop cravings for certain foods like sour pickles? A. Yes. Of 600 expectant mothers questioned by a group of
